Summer 2010

Dear Friends,

The American Friends of the Georgian Group have traveled far and wide in the past few months. In March we visited Charleston and the Carolina Low Country. In May we took the second of our trips to see the classical origins of eighteenth-century architecture, this time to Rome. The third leg of this journey is described in this newsletter. In June, we enjoyed a day trip to the historic houses of the Quaker Hill neighborhood in Pawling, New York.

Within the city we visited Georgian treasures as well. In March we toured the classical George Baker House and were invited to the Russian Orthodox church next door, which is part of the original Baker family houses. In June we had an elegant luncheon at Gracie Mansion, where original eighteenth-century architecture and twentieth-century classical revival meet in satisfying harmony. Alexander Hamilton's Grange and how it moved was the subject of a lecture sponsored jointly by the AFGG and the American-Scottish Society.

Lectures by John Foreman, Wendell Garrett, and Amanda Vickery as well as tours of the Palladio exhibit at the Morgan Library and the objects conservation department at the Metropolitan Museum rounded out our program. Entertaining and informative, these events expanded our understanding of the Georgian period.

Coming up in September we will salute Francis Morrone at a cocktail reception at the Arsenal, on the roof assuming weather permits. In October we will explore their collection of English paintings at the Metropolitan Museum. We are pleased to join with the Royal Oak in presenting a lecture on Chinoiserie in Britain, 1650-1820, by David Beever. If you are bit by the Chinoiserie bug, you can learn more when we visit Gracie, whose showroom we will tour in November. Once again this fall we will have an exclusive visit to the International Fine Art & Antiques Dealers Show, where browsers and serious collectors can see treasures from the eighteenth century and other periods.

There is still time to sign up for our annual English trip, a luxury tour of English Country Houses, a very special opportunity to visit private houses in Shropshire. Our group will stay at Weston Park, where we very happily stayed a few years ago and look forward to visiting again.

Did you know that there are about 800 members of the Young Georgians in England? We hope to establish a Young Georgian group here and to have an event sometime early next year. If you or your friends are interested, please get in touch with us. The Georgian Group is encouraging AFGG members to visit their blog at <http://savinggeorgianbuildings.blogspot.com>. This is a good way to keep up with events in England during the year. Encourage your friends to join the AFGG; it is easy to do on line at www.americangeorgians.org.

Our annual meeting will be held in early December. We will let you know the date and place when these have been confirmed.

Best wishes,

John Kinnear
President

Architects in the City: an Evening with Francis Morrone
cocktail reception

Guest of Honor, Francis Morrone
Wednesday, September 22, 2010, 6:00
The Arsenal, Central Park
Fifth Avenue and 64th Street

Please join us for a special cocktail reception for members and guests honoring Francis Morrone. Author, critic, historian, and lecturer, Francis Morrone has written widely on the buildings of New York and the people who built them. His books include An Architectural Guidebook to Brooklyn, and An Architectural Guidebook to New York City. His work has no doubt done much to encourage a love for classical and classical-revival buildings in the city he loves. Join us on the roof of the Arsenal (weather permitting) to express our appreciation for all he has done for historic preservation.

Please reserve on the enclosed form and return it to us by September 15.

English Paintings at the Metropolitan exclusive guided tour

Tuesday, October 5, 2010, 3:00
Metropolitan Museum of Art
Fifth Avenue at 81st Street

Meet at the tour desk at the southwest corner of the main lobby

Katharine Baetjer, curator of European paintings, will show us masterpieces from the Metropolitan’s collection of English paintings. We will view the work of artists such as John Constable, Joshua Reynolds, and other eighteenth- and nineteenth-century masters. A highlight will be Reynolds’s recently restored “The Honorable Henry Fane with Inigo Jones and Charles Blair,” ca. 1761–1762. One of the first English pictures given to the Metropolitan, it is also one of the largest “conversation” pieces ever painted.

Please reserve on the form enclosed by September 28.

David Beevers

Tuesday, October 26, 2010, 6:00

The Grolier Club

47 East 60th Street

“On many a vase and jar, on many a screen and fan,” the images of Oriental life were translated to Western art and objects. Chinoiserie, was hugely popular in Britain in the late seventeenth and early eighteenth centuries. The story of this fashion is a fascinating example of contact between England and several dissimilar cultures, including those of Japan, India, Persia, as well as China. David Beevers will discuss the English taste for exotic images with examples taken from country houses such as Claydon House and from the Brighton Pavilion. David Beevers, University of Cambridge, is the Keeper of the Royal Pavilion, Brighton, and curated the exhibition, Chinese Whispers: Chinoiserie in Britain 1650–1930, in 2008.

The lecture will be followed by a reception.

Please make your reservations through the Royal Oak Foundation: www.royal-oak.org, or call Robert Dennis at 212/480-2889, ext. 201. Indicate your membership in the AFGG to receive the member discount.

VISIT TO CHARLESTON AND THE CAROLINA LOW COUNTRY,
MARCH 18-21, 2010

The AFGG trip to Charleston, led by Ralph Harvard, was a great success. The program included visits to a privately owned 1806 brick house on Church Street with elaborate plasterwork, where the hosts served refreshments in their secret garden; a towering single house on Meeting Street with views of the city's many steeples; and one of the historic houses owned by Richard Jenrette, whose manager entertained the group with stories of hurricane Hugo and lessons on the use of oil-based paint on humid piazzas. Other highlights were the Miles Brewton house, built in the 1760s and still owned by the family, and the magnificent Palladian masterpiece, Drayton Hall, where the happy travelers enjoyed an indoor picnic of fried chicken and biscuits.

AFGG VISITS QUAKER HILL, JUNE 12, 2010

A convivial group of AFGG members visited Quaker Hill in Pawling, New York, on June 12. The area was settled in the early eighteenth century by Quakers from Rhode Island. Akindale farm was our first stop, where we had coffee in the office, a former chapel built at the turn of the century. We then toured the main house, a proper center hall Georgian with typical additions through the generations. The furnishings and art portrayed the proud history of the farm. The main barn was inspired by Monticello; the dome provides a 360-degree view of the farm and surrounding countryside. On the farm there is another perfectly symmetrical house with a grand Palladian window and Adamesque detailing.

Next we were guests at Governor Thomas Dewey's beautiful 1840s house, with views in all directions, which is now decorated with contemporary flair. The group was photographed beneath a massive, rare weeping beech tree behind the house.

Lunch was at the Quaker Hill Country Club, founded by Lowell Thomas. Our last stop was at one of the grand center hall Federal houses built in 1800 and enlarged in 1900. The interior tastefully blends Scandinavian and American styles.

Gracie

The Decoration & Design Building

979 Third Avenue, between 58th and 59th Streets, No. 1411

A fascination with the Orient was prevalent in the eighteenth century both here and in England, where wallpapers, screens, furniture, and porcelain from China and Japan were incorporated into the decoration of many houses. In October we will have heard the lecture on Chinoiserie by David Beevers; now we will have the opportunity to observe some of these objects at first hand when we visit the Gracie studio and showroom. The Gracie family has supplied Chinese hand-painted scenic wallpapers, custom lacquer furniture, antiques, and accessories to leading interior designers since 1898. We have been invited to visit their new showroom, where many treasures will be revealed.

Our tour will be followed by a reception

Please reserve on the enclosed form and return it to us by November 10.

The Grand Tour Continues

Paestum, Herculaneum, and Sicily

May 2011

The American Friends of the Georgian Group are pleased to announce the third in our series of Grand Tours of the classical world. In May 2011 we will visit Paestum, Herculaneum, and Sicily, where we will see the Graeco-Roman antiquities that inspired the work of Robert Adam, among others.

Highlights of the trip will include Paestum, originally called Poseidonia, on the Tyrrhenian coast; Herculaneum, on the Gulf of Naples, where we will see the petrified remains of the eruption of Vesuvius in 79 AD; Palermo, Bagheria, Monreale, Segesta, Cefalu, Enna, Agrigento, Syracuse, and Taormina, all on the island of Sicily, which contain superb examples of classical architecture, such as the Roman villa of Piazza Amerina, Doric temples and Greek theaters, as well as stunning works from Byzantine, Renaissance, Baroque, and Norman periods.

Our expert guide throughout the trip will be acclaimed architectural historian Richard Garnier, a frequent contributor to the Georgian Group Journal. Details, including dates and booking arrangements, will be sent to you as soon as they become available. We hope to see you all on this very exciting Grand Tour.
